

Michelle Mailhot is in demand as a vocalist, arranger, adjudicator and clinician. As an educator Michelle is on the jazz faculty at Valencia College in Orlando, FL, where she teaches vocalists and instrumentalists alike. She has taught at the Phil Mattson Vocal Workshops, the Disney Sings Workshops, and the Zegree Vocal Jazz Camps. She has been an adjudicator for festivals throughout the country and the world taking her to Singapore and Japan. Michelle has performed extensively at Walt Disney World and has also been featured on several Walt Disney recordings.

Michelle tours and performs with the Drama Desk Award-winning acappella group, Vox Audio, and is a sought after jazz artist and session singer. In one of her more recent musical endeavors, she was asked to sing the theme song of "Doc McStuffins" at the Disney Jr, Live! Show at Disney's Hollywood Studios. She studied extensively with both Phil Mattson and Dr. Stephen Zegree and received her Bachelor of Music Degree from Western Michigan University. Michelle's vocal arrangements are performed by high school, college and professional ensembles throughout the world.

Michelle has performed with Bobby McFerrin, the Billy Taylor Trio, Mel Torme, Max Roach, Sheila Jordan, Sandy Patti, Thomas Dolby, Don Shelton of the Hi-Lo's and Liza Minelli. She is a session singer for radio and television commercials and album recording projects around the country.

She can be heard most recently on her own solo release "Happy Madness" and Bobby McFerrin's CD release "Vocabularies".
