

Rhonda, M.M. in vocal performance, is passionate about teaching students to find their free and expressive singing voice. Rooted in classical singing and technique, she has additional training in singing health, commercial styles and voice overs. Rhonda has sung several operatic and oratorio roles, been featured as a recitalist and has sung in elite professional choirs such as Santa Fe Desert Chorale and Orpheus Chamber Singers. She's been on faculty at Dallas Baptist University and Texas Woman's University guiding music majors as they embark on their careers in music.

Rhonda loves to meet singers wherever they are in their vocal abilities, discover more about themselves and to become more confident in their unique voices. Singing is one of many ways of self-expression and musical communication. It's an honor for her to be a part of each student's journey.