

Leah began taking piano lessons at age four which sparked a lifelong love of music. She completed her Associate Diploma with the Royal Conservatory of Music in June of 2022, and was honoured to win a gold medal for her performance. She has also competed extensively in festivals across Saskatchewan and Canada, and has won provincial and national scholarships in Bach, Romantic, French, and Excellence Class piano. She was recently a finalist at the 2022 Canadian Music Competition. Leah also frequently accompanies vocal and instrumental soloists, as well as the Melodia Singers in Saskatoon.

In 2022, she founded a piano quintet to contribute to the University of Saskatchewan chamber music initiative. Leah has been privileged to study with many wonderful teachers including Sarah Konecsni, Bonnie Nicholson, Kathleen Solose, and Loren Hiebert. She began teaching piano and theory in 2015 and has enjoyed sharing her enthusiasm for music education with students of all ages and levels. Leah loves to help students discover their own musical strengths and share her passion for music with the next generation of musicians.
