

Jazmine Schultz Bio

Jazmine was born in Minot, North Dakota and raised in Burlington, North Dakota, where as a third grader she discovered her love for performance at the annual school talent show. “A Whole New World” actually changed her world, planting her firmly on the path of musician. A couple of high school performance experiences, and 6 years as a Triangle Y Camp counselor later, the groundwork was laid for what would become her life’s passions: organizing, performing and participating in community art endeavors.

Jazmine spent her college years incubating all-ages, affordable, arts opportunities in Minot, where with friends, she founded an all ages art space called Pangea House, Why Not?! Minot Music and Arts Festival, and GRip (Girls Rip) Fest. It was here she found her life long friends and her DIY ethos.

Jazmine tours nationally with her band Vanity Plate and performs regularly with Community Rocks, a Minot non-profit that raises money for the community through orchestral rock n' roll performances.

She has four dogs and a fabulous partner, Zach, who is also her bandmate.
