

Steven Eiler serves as assistant professor of music at Tulsa Community College. There he directs the audio engineering certificate program, teaching courses in studio recording, live sound, and audio production software. He also teaches music composition, songwriting, music theory, and the history of music. He directs the New Music Ensemble, a variable chamber group that performs new works written by its own members. He is married to Michelle Eiler, a soprano and pianist from Brandon, Manitoba (just an hour north of the IMC), and they live with their four children in Tulsa, Oklahoma.