

McKenzie Walpole is a trumpet player, bassist, brass specialist, composer, arranger, and educator from Winnipeg, Manitoba. He received an undergraduate degree in Jazz performance, and a Masters degree in classical performance, both from Brandon University. However, his performance experience has taken him down many different paths, playing many different styles, and in many different ensembles, including brass bands, Latin bands, event bands, tribute bands, and even the circus. As an educator, he takes pride in making complex ideas easy to digest, while keeping the fundamentals at the forefront of the lesson, and providing new ways for students to approach and appreciate music, both in theory and performance.
