Dr. Jean Hellner holds a Ph.D. in musicology from the University of North Texas and a master's degree in musicology from The Florida State University. Her scholarly interests include narratology, nineteenth-century German symphonic literature, and opera. She has presented and published papers for a variety of international conferences, including the International Congress on Musical Signification. Dr. Hellner has been a panelist for several sessions held at the national meetings of the American Musicological Society, and she served on the Committee for the Status of Women for the Society for Music Theory.

Dr. Hellner is active in a number of local organizations, most notably as co-founder of the Community School for the Arts and the Edvard Grieg Society of the Dakotas. She serves as dean of the Red River Valley Chapter of the American Guild of Organists and is a member of the Red River Theatre Organ Society.

At Minnesota State University Moorhead Dr. Hellner currently teaches music history and is the collaborative pianist for the choirs. In addition to research and teaching, Dr. Hellner plays piano, organ, and euphonium.
